To the Dingo Team

I purchased my Dingo about eight months ago now and there is no looking back. It was a big step for me to change business activities, after being in the transport game for over fifteen years. I had originally approached Dingo after seeing an advertisement and was invited to an information session at Rocklea. I found this informative, and pondered the idea for about six months. In that time, there was absolutely no pressure from the Dingo representatives, no heavy handed sales pitches. It was obvious that the team at Dingo believed in their product and the ability for it to sell itself.

It took less than a month for my business to start booming and it is still growing. I hadn't realised there was such a demand and the versatility is endless. The reliability of the machine is very impressive and the overall running costs are very low (especially compared to Prime Movers!).

The support and after sales service from Dingo is faultless. The staff will go out of their way to help in whatever way they can and treat you like part of their team. The team at Dingo have a genuine interest in the success of my business and the absolute support for their own product is unsurpassed by any company I have dealt with.

Kind regards
